Are the Kids’ Books All Right?
Thursday, September 9, 2010
4 PM
35 College Avenue

A recent article discussed the appeal to adults of books written for younger readers. Do you prefer ‘young adult’ books? Do you ever feel guilty about not reading something more ‘highbrow’ or ‘grown-up?’ What’s the appeal (to adults) of young adult books? http://www.nytimes.com/2010/08/08/books/review/Paul-t.html
Opportunities

Employment Opportunity: Social-Emotional Learning Lab Research Assistant position
Professor Maurice Elias of the Department of Psychology and the Civic Engagement and Service Education Partnerships Program (CESEP) is looking for a research assistant for his Social-Emotional Learning (SEL) Lab. The position is an excellent opportunity to gain advanced Research Assistant experience for graduate school and to help contribute to educational policy decisions. The expected commitment is at least 6 hours per week for the entire 2010-2011 academic year. Duties will include cleaning and processing large datasets in Excel and SPSS. The ideal candidate will have at least 3 months of experience writing SPSS syntax, be familiar with Excel, and have strong organizational skills. This is a paid position.
For further information, contact:
Professor Elias, mjeru@aol.com
Dominic Moceri, dmoceri@eden.rutgers.edu.

Academic Opportunity
The Organizational Leadership minor is innovative and challenging, and is open to School of Arts and Sciences students. The minor provides theoretical and co-curricular learning experiences. The program offers excellent professional preparation, experiential learning, collaborative learning, and a foundation for working in the private and public sectors, law, corporate, not for profit organizations, and in community or government institutions. For more information, contact Dr. Arnold G. Hyndman, hyndman@rci.rutgers.edu Director or Dr. Michelle R. Jefferson, jeffermi@echo.rutgers.edu, Associate Director.

Zimmerli Art Museum Volunteer Opportunity
If you are interested in volunteering at the Zimmerli Art Museum, please email Rebecca Brenowitz at brenowit@rutgers.edu.

A Spring of Hope is a non-profit organization constructing wells at impoverished rural schools in Africa. Learn about poverty in Africa, gain leadership experience, tap into your entrepreneurial instincts, and participate in cultural exchange. To get involved, come to the organizational meeting on Wednesday, September 8 from 6:30 to 7:30pm in the Rutgers Student Center room 407, or send an email to rutgerschapter@aspringofhope.org.

The Rutgers Society of Bioethics is currently accepting submissions for its Fall 2010 Journal!
If you are interested, please contact the Editor-in-Chief, rubioethics.journ@gmail.com, or come out to the General Body Meeting on Thursday, September 16, 2010 @ B.C.C. (Rm 120A) at 8:45pm. We look forward to hearing from you and seeing you there!
The Rutgers University Prospective Health Care Club (PHCC), a newly started student organization, aims to promote Prospective Health Care—a novel model of medicine that emphasizes disease prediction and prevention, personalization of treatment, and patient responsibility. PHCC seeks to provide opportunities for students to publish their own articles, volunteer to promote a healthier University and New Brunswick community, and to interact with senior faculty interested in the future of medicine. Interested students should feel free to email RUPHCC@gmail.com or search for RU PHCC on Sakai. Meetings will be held on Tuesdays starting at 9:30PM in ARC 105 on Busch Campus. Come join us!
