What is Happening to Democracy?: Securing Environmental Justice in a GDP Driven Economy - The Case of India
Tuesday, November 2, 2010
7:00 PM
Graduate Student Lounge, CAC
Leo Saldanha and Bhargavi Rao, coordinators for Environment Support Group (ESG), which works on social/environmental justice and governance issues, have been on the forefront of some of the most pressing issues in a rapidly changing Bangalore, and an increasingly volatile India. Between lengthy court battles, an extensive educational outreach program and daily grassroots organizing efforts, ESG has its finger on the pulse of the "development"-centric discourses and projects surrounding the changing urban and rural India, and what that means for environmental justice and democracy. For more information, contact Professor Zakia Salime at zsalime@sociology.rutgers.edu.
