

I Am One With The Force And The Force Is With Me

RUTGERS SASHP NEWSLETTER

Wednesday, December 13, 2017

Dear SAS Honors Program Students,

Now I am no Jedi, but I know the Force. And you're probably thinking, hey lady if you're gonna tell me about the Force, you better tell me how it can help with my finals. If I want an A, I just use the Force right? No. That's not how it works. The Force connects and binds all living things. All I have are a few events and opportunities to do just that thing. Because the Force, the Jedi, it's real. All of it. And so are these events.

Be sure to come out to the De-Stress Night sponsored by the SASHP Peer Mentors. There will be PUPPIES! Also, if you need a place to study, be sure to stop by the Honors Study Space tomorrow from 2-5PM and the 24 Hour Study Space at the Zimmerli. There are also fun opportunities for a part-time internship, a month-long bike ride, and a trip back in time for you to peruse after finals. Be sure to click around: fun and useful links are scattered throughout today's newsletter. In the meantime, trust your feelings, be aware of your surroundings, and try not to panic like this porg:

May the Force be with you,
Kim Peterman
Student Director of Honors Media

In this Newsletter

Wednesday December 13, 2017

- De-Stress Night
- Last Day of Classes

Thursday December 14, 2017

- Reading Day
- Honors Study Space
- All Night at the Zimmerli

Friday December 15, 2017

- First Day of Finals
- "The Last Jedi" Release

Spread the Holiday Spirit

Give back to the Rutgers and New Brunswick community by donating non-perishable food and hygiene products here:

- Rutgers Food Pantry
- Elijah's Promise
- Ronald McDonald House
- Salvation Army

Suggested items include cereal, diapers/formula, protein bars, and toothbrushes.

SASHP Newsletter

Campus Events

De-Stress Night

Come to the SASHP De-Stress Night brought to you by the Peer Mentors. Free food, coffee, and hot cocoa! Kick back and relax with the RUCAC puppies, coloring, board games, crafts, and more! All SASHP students are welcome.

Date: Wednesday, December 13, 2017 8-10 PM

Place: McCormick Lounge, Busch Campus

Study All Night At the Zimmerli

Looking for a unique place to study for finals? The Zimmerli stays open 24+ hours straight to provide Rutgers students with an additional study location during Reading Days.

Date: Thursday, December 14

10:00 AM-Friday, December 15 4:30 PM

Place: Zimmerli Art Museum

SASHP Newsletter

Opportunities

The Dream Project

1,700 miles. 30 Days. 9 States. Think you have what it takes? This summer take the pledge to bike from New Brunswick, NJ down the east coast of Florida. Do your part in providing neglected, homeless and missing youth a chance to reconnect with a brighter future through Visions and Pathways. Find out more here and email applications to mail.alexanderinstantly@gmail.com.

CALLING ALL
ADVENTURERS

RU Gen UN Get Involved

GenUN is a national initiative of the United Nations Association aimed at educating students about UN issues and empowering advocacy for international humanitarian issues. We are seeking committed students passionate about any humanitarian or environmental causes to join our executive board or participate as a general member.

DEADLINE: SAT DEC 23, 2017

SASHP Newsletter

Opportunities

Archeological Field School in Italy!

Learn methods in field-based archaeology, including excavation techniques, data recording, and conservation of sites and materials. Spend weekends exploring Rome or somewhere else in central Italy! For more information, contact Professor Gary Farney at gfarney@rutgers.edu or click on the title above.

Criminal Law Internship

The chambers of Robert J. Jones, JSC, seeks a part-time, unpaid student intern to assist in matters primarily related to New Jersey criminal record expungement petitions. Preferred applicants will express a strong interest in criminal law. Please provide a brief cover letter and resume in a single pdf to david.gray@njcourts.gov.

Attention Seniors!

Want to share your SASHP experience? Keep an eye out over winter break for an application for the opportunity to reflect on your Honors experience for a special series of blog posts and other media. You'll also be considered for a chance to speak at the Honors Senior Brunch in the spring.